

LJCC-JCW Cookbook: Call for Recipes

Here is what you can do to help make the LJCC-JCW cookbook a success.

Recipes

Choose anywhere from 1 to 5 recipes you think would be good for inclusion in the cookbook. Ideally, the recipe should have some meaning to you. For example, it might be one or all of the following:

1. Something you prepare often in your home, a recipe proven to be a favorite.
2. Something you traditionally prepare for one of the Jewish holidays or for a special family occasion such as a birthday.
3. A recipe you associate with a family member or friend, perhaps one that has been handed down over generations.
4. Something you often bring to an Oneg.

Note: Criteria for Inclusion

We cannot promise that all recipes an individual submits will be included in the cookbook. We need to aim for a range of contributors and recipes, and must think in terms of space limitations. We can promise, however, that at least one recipe will be included.

Additional Information to Provide

Because we want the cookbook to be a very personalized picture of our community, we ask you to include any stories or associations you would like to share about a particular recipe that illustrate the meaning the recipe has for you or your family. (Look at points 1 through 4 under “Recipes” above for the kinds of stories or associations you might remark upon.) Also, if a recipe is from a particular cookbook, please reference the cookbook. If you have “adapted” (i.e. changed) the recipe, note this too; i.e., “adapted from....”

Format

Provide full instructions with regard to ingredients, how to prepare, cooking time, special tips, etc. If possible, type this information, and any comments you would like to include about the personal meaning of the recipe, on your computer so it can be sent by email. If it is not possible for you to email the information, clearly handwrite the instructions and comments for alternative means of conveying the relevant information.

Getting the Recipe(s) to the Recipe Committee

We offer four possible ways for you to submit your recipe(s).

1. Email your recipe(s) and your comments on the personal meaning of the recipe(s) to both members of the recipe committee. Committee members are Suzanne Sherr and Jill Kleinberg. Photographs of a recipe also work.
2. If you send a handwritten (or typed) copy of the recipe/comments by snail mail, please send it either to Suzanne, or Jill.
3. Alternatively, you may give the handwritten (or typed) recipe/comments to Marty at the LJCC office or to Suzanne, or Jill at an LJCC event.
4. Finally, we will gladly pick up the recipe(s)/comments at your home. Please contact Suzanne or Jill to make arrangements.
